Need A Review?

If you would like me to review your product on my blog. Please contact me at michelledraveski@yahoo.com and leave me the details of the product you would like to have reviewed have been a Mom the chances of actually getting something for myself are few and far between so when I do receive something that is all mine you can find me doing a happy dance up and down my street with an Irish Jig included for good luck. Now combine that with an item I actually like, well let's just say the dance goes on for a long long while. Did you know there is a 10 PM noise ordinance in my city?

Anyway I digress. Shanti Boutique sent me a charm that had my style in mind. Its a Karma Charm and it is how I try to live my life. I firmly believe in its inscription of "what goes around comes around" and have tried to live by that philosophy daily. If you do something nice for someone something nice is going to someday happen for you, most times just when you need it. Shanti Boutique is a web site devoted to healing your spirit and Karma and has many such items that are all about what is good for your body and spirit. They have a beautiful array of charms, pendants and other jewelry that will offer you peace as well as fashion and leave you with a good all over feeling. I love mine and can't wait to find the perfect chain to hang it from. HINT HINT MOM!

If you are looking for a gift or just want to bring some peace and harmony to your own mile a minute life, Shanti Boutique has something to fit your needs. I spent hours going through their site and found so many beautiful
